WISCONSIN AGRICULTURAL STATION GIVES ADVICE ON CONSTRUCTION OF BARN.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., June 5.—After a thorough study of the various methods of constructing barns, the Wisconsin agricultural experiment station today issued a bulletin outlining the best plans to follow in erecting buildings for Wisconsin dairy farms.
The bulletin urges farmers to build their barns with a view to meet future needs and to permit the handling of the maximum capacity of the farm.
Among some of the things recommended are:
That rectangular barns be used instead of round ones and that the building run north and south in order to get the greatest amount of light.
That gambrel roofs give more than gable roofs.
That concrete is the best product that can be used for this work.
Spring time is moving time. If you have a house to rent, let it be known through a Gazette want ad.

SERMON ON DEFENSE
BY REV. T. C. THORSON

TRUST IN GOD SHOULD BE BACKED UP BY NATION BEING PREPARED.

RELIEF CORPS PRESENT

American Flag is Presented to the Church by the Members of Relief Corp Who Attend Services.

A very able "preparedness" sermon was delivered by Rev. T. C. Thorson, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church, Sunday morning, when the members of the Relief Corp attended the services. The Relief Corps presented the church with a beautiful American flag, befitting the occasion and bringing home the message spoken from the pulpit, that Americans should stand strong enough to defend her Christian principles and deliver the mission, that God had entrusted to this republic.

Rev. Thorson did not take the stand of a pacifist in the least, but maintained that the actions of Christ and the Bible teaching, then, and not until then, would world's peace become a realization. The text was taken from Psalms 20:7, "Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but will remember the name of the Lord, our God." The sermon in part, follows:

Issue of Defense.
"There is one question that supremely agitates the mind of the nation. It is (forever upon the lips of the press, it resounds in the halls of legislation, it pervades upon the streets of our cities. The question of national preparedness. Let us consider what the attitude of the Christian should be to preparedness and war. We shall be told by some that the question belongs to politics and not to religion. But Christianity being the most potent factor in realizing present day civilization its voice should be heard in the political arena. It is not party politics that determine the attitude of the Christian citizen, but the will of God.

"Christians have often been accused of not being patriotic. But that depends on what you mean by patriotism. If by patriotism you mean inflated national pride, vain glorious Fourth of July, boasting, security, guns and fortifications, then the Christian is unpatriotic. But if by patriotism you mean devotion to the laws and institutions of the land, the Christian is of all men most patriotic.

Action of Master.
"Some tell us that the Bible plainly forbids believers to participate in warfare. The passage 'but whosoever smiteth thee on the right cheek turn to him the other also' is cited. Let it be interpreted by the action of the Master. When He stood before the High Priest and the servant smote him on the cheek. He turned not the other side to him but said, 'If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil; but if not, why smitest thou Me? If you permitted a highwayman to rob you when you might collar him and give him a thrashing you would be fulfilling the letter of the law but you would violate with its spirit. The letter killeth, the spirit maketh alive. The words of Christ to Peter are often quoted to the same effect. But they were spoken to a disciple and not to a soldier. Had Peter so understood Christ to doubt He would have commanded Cornelius the Roman Centurion to abandon the profession of a soldier upon becoming a Christian. But he did not. Neither did Christ so tell the Centurion whose daughter He quickened from the dead.

"However, let us bear in mind that the Bible does not sanction warfare. It tolerates it as a lesser of two evils. The man who, because of his Christian convictions refuses to participate in war is close to the heart of Christian idealism. He reminds us of our ultimate goal, the abolition of war. By artificial means you may stimulate the ripening of the fruit, but you are in danger of losing the fruit and impairing the life of the tree. Only as the gospel of peace gradually gains the ascendancy over the hearts of the nations will war be outgrown, as slavery, and as we are now outgrowing the evil of national intolerance.

The time is not yet opportune to beat our weapons into plow shares and pruning hooks. Disarmament at present might invite national disaster. National peace as yet is a vain delusion. Disarmament cannot safely rest upon universal peace in the popular accepted meaning of the term. There is no foundation deep enough, broad enough upon which disarmament may rest but the Kingdom of the Prince of Peace. When the Prince of Peace shall have been enthroned in the hearts of the Nations, then, and not until then, shall war cease.

We Must Prepare.
Meanwhile we must be prepared to defend ourselves by force of arms if necessary. To fail in this would be betrayal of the sacred heritage of political and religious freedom. To send an army of untrained men against a disciplined army would be criminal negligence on our part. But we shall be told that it is the height of Christian inconsistency to make God our sure defense while building strong fortifications. The contradiction is apparent, not real. The man who, being sick, prays to God for healing, yet takes medicine does not prevent God using the medicine as the means of healing. God works through natural means. The nation that prays for protection, but neglects to build up its defenses to help protect itself as the man who prays for daily bread is under obligation to go and work for it.

Against militarism we must stoutly set our hearts. Militarism is a "pestilence that walketh in darkness," a "destruction that wasteth in noonday." Assyria was a military nation. Her king boasted of her power and the glory of his army. But under the true is God's word. Sennacherib, the very military nation the fire of God's hot indignation is kindled. Call the roll of military despotism and see how true is God's word. Sennacherib, the very military nation the fire of God's hot indignation is kindled. Call the roll of military despotism and see how true is God's word. Sennacherib, the very military nation the fire of God's hot indignation is kindled. Call the roll of military despotism and see how true is God's word.

It will be said that Israel was God's chosen people. True, and if God has shown tender solicitude for any nation of modern times that nation is America, in the most opportune time God drew aside the curtain and revealed America to the world. In its soil was planted the seed that has grown into the tree of American freedom under whose shadows men from all nations have taken refuge.

Facts in History.
You tell me that God no longer intervenes in the affairs of nations as of old?

Let history answer. Philip II of Spain lited out the invincible Armada to conquer Protestant England. A fleet so large that the waters ground under the burden and the winds wearied of filling its canvas. The Armada was the most powerful fleet God looked down from heaven and breathed upon the waters and the sea was lashed into a fury and the armada was destroyed. You tell me that God does not intervene in the affairs of nations? Let history speak. When James II of England contrived to lay Protestantism at the feet of Papal domination, the people again rose for the defense of their rights. Prince William of Orange to deliver them. The wind that carried the fleet of William of Orange down the channel held the king's ships helpless in the Thames. The French fleet came to Torbay the wind turned to the south and subsided during disembarkation and then raised to a tempest, and again the enemy was helpless. You tell me that God does not intervene in the affairs of nations in response to prayer? Let history testify. When the New England colonists were told that the French were sending a fleet to conquer them, a season of fasting and prayer was observed. And as the people were gathered in the Old South church in Boston and Reverend Prince was praying, a mighty tempest met the French fleet and they were dashed to pieces upon the shores of Nova Scotia. What but answered prayer explains the victory of the navy? The colonists, without a navy, without the aid of weapons, resources, torn by internal strife and jealousies, winning against the largest and the best trained army of Europe and inexhaustible resources. Blind indeed the man who here does not see the hand of God. Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, who are you? Not necessarily the lineal descendants of the revolutionary fathers. Every American citizen who is imbued and animated by the spirit of the revolutionary fathers, to whose heart the cause of freedom, justice and truth was dearer than life itself.

A Divine Mission.
The colonists took possession of New England in the name of God. Lincoln speaks of our nation as conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. That is a government of, by and for the people. And as surely as God has created the North American continent so surely has He given this nation a divine mission. And that mission is to maintain and guard jealously the principles of liberty, justice and equal rights for all. And how wonderfully our country's physical beauty corresponds with its exalted purpose. When God designed our country He took the choicest soil and in deposited minerals in abundance. Then He stretched out the plains, made the valleys and rolled up the mountains. He laid the lakes, the rivers, and have been laid down from the sky. And He made a network of rivers on their broad bosoms to carry the commerce to the seas. And over our heads He stretched the most beautiful patch of blue skies and studded with the brightest stars. Thank God for our country with its wealth and beauty.

What gives us worth as a nation?
Only God given mission. And only as we are true to that mission, only as we are true to that heaven given program is any man justified in shedding his blood for the nation. Only from the wars waged for the rights of humanity have beneficial influences resulted and from none other. Out of the revolutionary war emerged a Republic, the most enlightened, the most free, the most prosperous, the most powerful of all republics. Out of the fiery furnace of the civil war came a nation chastened and purified. A republican nation, one and indivisible, with equal rights for all.

Faith to Principles.
We are told that we are threatened by foreign invasion. If it is so, it is not now a danger to our nation, it is a danger to our national boundaries. Selfish interests, national pride, national wickedness, these are our real enemies. We have the best of the world, we are faithful to God and our best calling.

Let us ever be faithful to the principles of freedom, truth and righteousness, and it was should come and we shall be found fighting on God's side and victory ever resides on His side. If that be our course this nation shall ever shine as the bright star in the constellation of the nations of the earth.

OLD ROCK RIVER IS REAL BEAUTY SPOT

Stretch from Janesville to Koshkonong Reveals Charming History Replete with Historic Interest.

By O. P. Murwin.

In going around through the fine old state of Wisconsin and visiting the many beautiful state parks and pleasure resorts, where the people have wakened up to the realization that these lovely natural parts lay right at their door and where they are improving and making these places still more beautiful and then coming home and talking with the many Janesville people who go hundreds of miles to visit these places while right at their home city is one of the loveliest natural series of parks and camping grounds to be found anywhere in the state. Just go down to the wharf above the upper dam some fine morning, get into a launch and take a trip down Rock River. You will find you have passed the beautiful scenery on ground on Goose Island and after you get through the narrows just lay back and enjoy the panorama passing before you. As you go up the river you can still see some of the old Indian trails along the banks and passing the old stone quarry on the right which used to be worked thirty or forty years ago. The stone taken down to Janesville on large flatboats, then passing up to old Crystal Springs park, a natural beauty spot surrounded by high hills on the back and picturesque bluffs of the river, the river will show some of the old Indian trails still showing there. Then on to Pope's Springs, another natural beauty spot; then arrived the bend up past where the old mill race still stood in the 60's and the tall race still stands on the right at the right. Then up under the four mile bridge where you soon come to cottages clustered along each bank, and the music and song comes floating out over the water, you feel that life is worth living, even in this age. Then as you wind on up the river with high bluffs on one hand and dotted with summer cottages and low lying farm land on the other until you finally come to the narrows near the Stone mill, going along the left bank as you enter the narrows, the river is wide and skirting that bank until you are through; then over near the left bank up to where the old stone bridge used to cross the river; then up past the old mill race and the old mill race flows from the four beautiful lakes at Madison; then up the river to where the bluffs rise on the left side and here on the Indian camping grounds used to be, and on the bluffs used to be a large flat space where the Indians used to dance and hold their big council meetings in the 20's and 40's and the old Indian mounds and mounds and mounds showing to day. These things appeal to me for they speak of a nation which lived and was content and happy with these things. They speak of a nation content to enjoy these places right at home. In these days of hurry and high speed where we go many miles to find restful places, we overlook this beautiful natural camping grounds and natural parks along Rock River right at our doors. So let us get together and save and improve these beautiful parks so our children will have them for their children to play and camp in right at our doors.

RENEWED INVITATION TO F. E. MCGOVERN

EDITOR GOODLAND: FURTHER URGES FORMER GOVERNOR TO ATTEND PROGRESSIVE CONFERENCE.

REPLIES TO CRITICISM

Suggests That McGovern May Be a Tribune Inconsistent in His Denunciation of Party Conclave.

Janesville, Wis., June 5.—Editor W. S. Goodland extended a further invitation to former Governor F. E. McGovern to attend the progressive conference at Madison, June 22, in a letter which pointed to many of the suggestions contained in the "refusal" letter of the former governor. Editor Goodland says that there is no intention on the part of any signer to violate the primary law and points to the fact that your warm political friends, veterans in the service of the state and in the fight for primary elections, such as Hon. John Hicks, Senator A. W. Sanborn, William Mauthe and Judge D. O. Mahoney, have warmly endorsed the conference. Replying to the denunciation of the conference made by Governor McGovern, the Goodland letter says:

"We denounce the proposed conference because you claim it is a conspiracy to secure your own candidacy on what you please to call a conference of progressive republicans. This conference, as I am informed, was called to meet by letters and telephone and was not committed to you in advance and a large number of whom were invited to you because of appointment to positions in the state service. There was no public notice of this conference, and after a brief deliberation rendered you the nomination, which you accepted."

Editor Goodland replies to the suggestion of the former governor that the conference may be packed by saying: "You charge that such a conference may be packed, that it will lead to intrigue, trickery and fraud, yet you accept a nomination from a conference secretly called and unquestionably packed with your personal friends and followers and give it the stamp of your approval and justification. This may be consistency, but if it is a brand with which I confess I am not familiar."

The letter suggests that McGovern should have run for governor two years ago, when it was his administration as governor under fire.

Racine, Wis., June 3, 1916.
Hon. Francis E. McGovern,
Milwaukee, Wis.

My Dear Governor:
Kindly forgive me for saying that I believe the issues at stake in the coming election and the condition existing in the progressive republican ranks in Wisconsin are such as to include any banding of words or splitting hairs between us in discussing the merits or demerits of the proposed statewide conference or convention, if you wish to call it such.

I most emphatically deny, however, that there is the remotest desire or intention on the part of any signer of the call for the conference to violate either the spirit or letter of the primary law. I think it can be confidently said that all of these men are as sincere in their belief in and support of the primary and all it stands for as you are.

Let me remind you, that your warm political friends, veterans in the service of the state and in the fight for primary elections, such as the Hon. John Hicks, Senator A. W. Sanborn, William Mauthe and Judge D. O. Mahoney, have warmly endorsed the conference. Do you not regard the judgment of these men of value?

Let me remind you that the conference is not a contest for the spoils of office, but is born of a sincere desire to place progressive republicans of Wisconsin above bickering and scandalizing and again place principle and the public good as the sole basis of the movement.

The conference has been called for definite purposes. One is to create an organization for the purpose of co-ordinating and filing a voice in the progressive movement and not, as the past, leaving everything to the self-appointed leadership of the party. The inevitable result in eradication of the evil of secret conferences and back cabals—the thing that in my opinion is largely responsible for the present unfortunate conditions. The other purpose is to endeavor to secure harmony and to unite, if possible, on a single state ticket so as to enable the progressives to enter the coming primary in the strongest possible position.

Not object to the method by which the representation to this conference is secured, branding it as a reversal of old convention methods and that it will inevitably lead to trickery, fraud, intrigue and backstabbing.

The sole desire of those who issued the call was to secure a fair representation and one that would include every element and faction in the progressive ranks. Some basis of representation had to be adopted and some limitation made, or else it could have lent itself to just what you have said. Let me ask what other and better basis could you or anyone else have adopted?

So far as the charge of fraud, trickery and intrigue is concerned, I wish to express my confidence in the honesty, fairness and integrity of the progressive republicans of Wisconsin, and in the belief that they are too intelligent to be made the victims of such practices or to countenance, or to become a party to them. I am confident that when the state conference meets it will be fairly representative of the progressive republicans of Wisconsin, that it will deal justly with all interests and questions that may come before it, and that it will unquestionably lead to a greater harmony and unity of action than has prevailed in Wisconsin for many years. I hope also that it will sound the death knell for many of the ambitions that would rule or personal ambitions of consequences to the public interest and the perpetuation of party principles.

Allow me to suggest that I am not interested in any personal differences or enmities between you and Senator La Follette or others, nor do I believe that the rank and file is interested in the personal ambitions of any one, but a desire for liberal and efficient government. They are not aspiring for honors nor for power, and I am confident that their ideal of a sincere and honorable progressive is one who, if necessary, would sacrifice his personal ambition and claims to recognition to the public good and triumph of his principles.

Now let me ask, can you honestly state that this conference was "fairly representative"? How can you justify such a conference and in the same breath denounce one which is publicly called, to which an invitation is extended for all progressives to participate in and which will be as "fairly representative" as its sponsors could make it? You charge that such a conference may be packed, that it will lead to intrigue, trickery and fraud, yet you accept a nomination from a conference secretly called and unquestionably packed with your personal friends and followers, and give it the stamp of your approval and justification. This may be consistency, but if it is a brand with which I confess I am not familiar.

While I am not committed to any man's candidacy for governor, and have had no part in the movement to present Senator Bosshard as the progressive standard bearer, I feel, however, that your condemnation of his candidacy as fictitious and your charges that he has been a party to a conspiracy to retire you from the field, is false and most unjust to him. Let me remind you that Senator Bosshard is a man of unquestioned honor and integrity and above small tricks and deceit. Allow me also to recall to your mind that he has devoted to your faithful service to the progressive movement, that he has made great sacrifices of time and money to the cause, and he has been unselfish in his devotion and has heretofore received no recognition and reward. Having done this, is there anything selfish in his ambition to be governor? And can you, who have for years constantly aspired to high office, consistently condemn such an ambition of Mr. Bosshard? Such charges against an honorable opponent do not show either broad-mindedness nor courteous consideration and are very clearly the work of one who has been and again aspires to be governor of the great state of Wisconsin.

In my judgment, many of the things you charge against other leaders are based very largely on misrepresentation and suspicion, and were it possible for you and they to sit down and exchange views and make explanations, you would ascertain this to be a fact, and practical harmony and co-operation would result. The way out of the hopes and inspirations back of the movement for a state conference. This is also somewhat true of such divisors as may exist in the rank and file. I am confident that if they could meet in friendly conference that it would result in clearing up these mistakes and suspicions and result in real harmony again. I regret, therefore, that you have refused to enter the conference.

I think you are wrong when you charge that the able and honorable men who contested at the primary two years ago with "political backwardness" it was your administration that was under fire. Some of the men were incapable of defending the appropriation of some millions of dollars more than were actually used. You were the man who had the facts and knew your reasons for signing the bills. It was for you to lead in the defense, to make the defense. Had you accepted the challenge made and stood for re-election your position would have been courageous and logical. You abandoned the field to others with less knowledge of the facts, while you sought a higher office. I am not finding fault. I am defending others whom I am sure are not less loyal than yourself. To accuse these men, men like Hutton, Hull, Dahl and Roethe, as being guilty of stupidity and political cowardice is an injury to you. And on reflection I think you will withdraw the ungenerous charge.

The conference has been called and I am confident will be a large outpouring of representatives. It will not be dictated to by supporters of it. The progressive republicans I believe will stand back of these candidates. Those who oppose will divide the forces of the opposition. This is my belief. I will have a united progressive militant organization that will go out to victory.

I am sorry that you choose not to join the movement to redeem Wisconsin from misrule. I am more than sorry, I am disappointed, not for the results, but in you. I wish again, here and publicly, to extend to all sincere progressive republicans an invitation to participate in the district conferences and send strong, unbiased delegations to the state conference.

Like yourself, I have been frank and blunt and whatever criticism there may be in what I have said, I sincerely hope it will be taken in the spirit in which it has been given, one of sincere loyalty to progressivism and a desire for public good.

Your very truly,
W. S. GOODLAND.

START "CRAB CRUISE" FOR ANNAPOLIS MIDSHPMEN TODAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Annapolis, Md., June 5.—Today began the practice cruise for midshipmen along the Atlantic coast, the "crab cruise," as the Academy vernacular has it.

The squadron left Annapolis this morning and is scheduled to arrive at Culebra on June 12. It will leave Culebra on June 17 and arrive at Guantanamo on June 21.

It will stay at Guantanamo until July 6, and the next stop will be Provincetown, Mass., which it is expected, will be reached on July 13, and which will become the squadron base.

The vessels of the squadron will then separate to rendezvous in August and leave Provincetown one week later. Aug. 18 to 21 will be spent at Hampton Roads and Aug. 21 to 27 at the southern drill grounds.

The squadron will arrive off the Patuxent river, in the Chesapeake Bay, on Aug. 23 and at Annapolis on Aug. 30. The midshipmen will then go on leave for a month.

The ships of the squadron will stop at points after reaching Provincetown as follows: The Missouri, Portland; the Rockport, Boston; the Wisconsin, Portland; the Boston, Gloucester; the Ohio, Boston; the Rockport, Salem.

ENGLAND HAS REALIZED
GAIN OF $4,000,000 FROM
SEIZURE OF ENEMY'S SHIPS
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, June 5.—A net gain of $4,000,000 has been realized by Great Britain from the seizure of enemy ships and their cargoes in the last twenty months of the war, according to the record of the prize court. The government captured 157 ships which have been disposed of after decision by the prize courts as follows:

No.	Tonnage	Value
42	54,772	Ray—Do you believe in signs?
42	56,162	Ray—Yes, indeed.
42	56,162	Ray—Well, last night I dreamed you were really in love with me.
73	85,936	What is that a sign of?
73	85,936	May—That's a sign you were dreaming.

Total 157 195,970

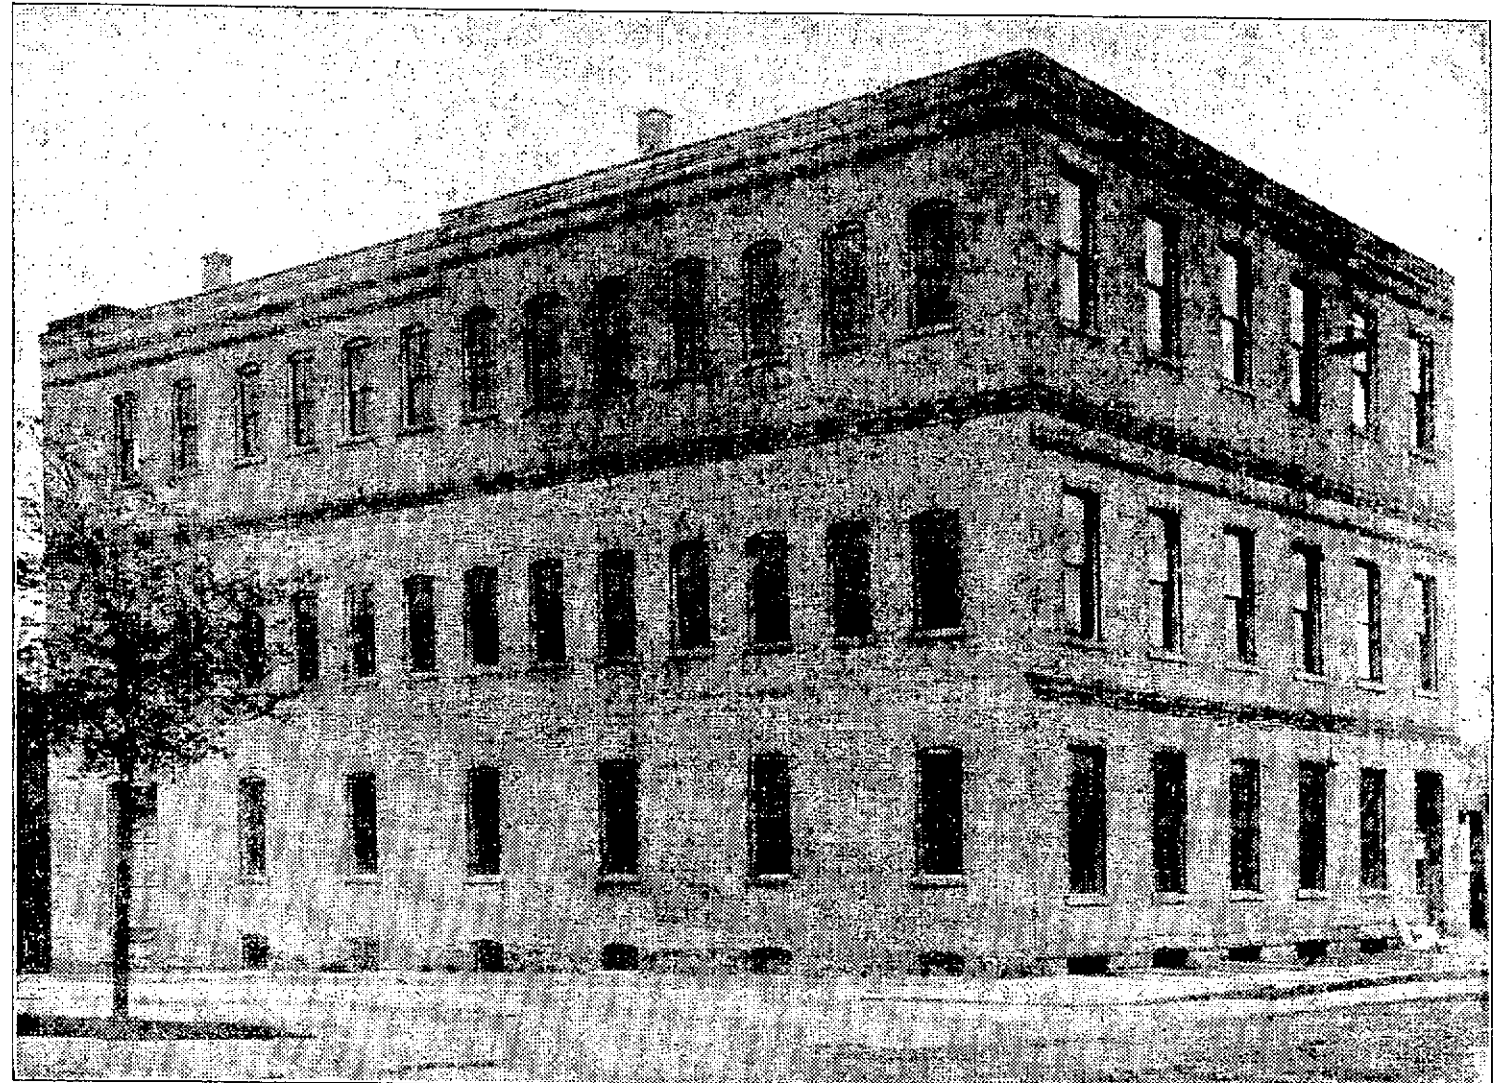

The results of the sales have been approximately:
Proceeds of sale of condemned vessels and interest $1,074,025
Expenses of sale 26,740
Total proceeds of sale of ships and cargoes, $1,047,285.

There are many more vessels and a large quantity of cargo still before the court. Some idea of the work already done may be gathered from the fact that more than 1,000 writs for prize proceedings have been issued.

The goods which have been seized and condemned as contraband represent every possible variety, ranging from windmills, tombstones and human hair to wild animals which were intended for the Berlin Zoo.

TIME TO WAKE UP.
Ray—Do you believe in signs?
May—Yes, indeed.
Ray—Well, last night I dreamed you were really in love with me.
What is that a sign of?
May—That's a sign you were dreaming.

How to Heal Skin-Diseases

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable drugstore get a jar of resinol ointment and a cake of resinol soap.

These are not at all expensive. With the resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

Almost any soap will clean the skin and hair. But those who want a soap which not only cleanses but actually helps the complexion and hair are wise to choose resinol soap.

POLITICAL PLATFORMS.

There is an old phrase that the purpose of language is to conceal thought. This used to be applied principally to diplomats. It fits the builders of political platforms even better.

Some consummate artists in word twisting are always lined up for the national conventions. They hand out high sounding planks which may catch votes of the specially interested, yet offend no one. No national platform is usually considered complete without favorable references to the Russian Jews and other non-political questions.

On vital issues, the common method is to straddle. It is customary to demand a low tariff on the necessities of life, yet also demand that the workmen making these necessities be shielded from foreign competition. Ordinarily this kind of thing goes pretty well. But occasionally the people get worked up on a certain question, and demand a positive expression.

To discriminating students of politics, platforms are not as meaningless as they seem. They may be surrounded by masses of verbiage. The carefully balanced phrases may be intended to please all factions it possible. But by comparing the declarations with those of previous years, differences of statements and emphasis can be found. It is usually seen that either a declaration has grown more positive, indicating a growth of public sentiment, or that it has become more evasive, indicating the subject has dropped out of popular interest.

Two PERTINENT QUESTIONS. "Comment in the newspapers on the naval battle off the Skagerrak has been of a rather obvious character," says the Wall Street Journal. "The moral effect of the engagement in Germany and Great Britain, and upon the minds of neutrals, has been discussed without the development of any new thought. Germany badly needed a victory to cheer the drooping spirits of her people, after the costly attempt upon Verdun. Perhaps also the British needed a lesson. But there are two questions which may be pertinently asked.

"One of these has received at least partial reply. Why did the German fleet, claiming to have defeated the British squadron, retreat to its Heilichland base, leaving the vanquished in the possession of the field of battle? Perhaps it may have been that the German demonstration was only a sortie, and that its objects had been attained when it inflicted heavy damage upon the enemy at moderate cost. But this is hardly an adequate answer to the question.

"The second question has not received a reply and can only be answered by the course of future events, as it would be strategically the policy of the British admiralty to hold back the reply as long as possible. Was the movement of the British cruiser squadron merely a patrol, or had it another object in view? It will be observed that the battle was fought in narrow waters, and that the range of the great English battle cruisers sunk, and rendering them much more vulnerable to torpedo attack.

"Can it have been that the British admiral took a big chance, with heavy possibilities of loss, in order to secure a junction in the Baltic with the Russian fleet? The position taken by the British cruisers would thus become intelligible, as it would be serving in a positive, as well as a negative, way. The German grand fleet, it will be observed, retreated southward, and may not have been in position to see what could conceivably have been a passage of the straits between Scandinavia and Denmark made at night in the course of the action to the south.

"It is ultimately found that the British had succeeded in placing any considerable squadron at the service of Russia in the Baltic. Germany would have suffered a strategic defeat, which may even have been well worth the heavy price the British paid for it. It will be seen that these two questions are closely related; and in naval tactics and strategy it is always well to be cautious about assuming the obvious.

TROUBLESOME DAYS.

These are troublesome days for the ultra progressives. They do not know just which way to jump and remain on the band wagon. While the Wisconsin members of the faction who will attend the national convention as delegates, can vote for Robert M. La Follette for president, at least on the first ballot, still they do not know what is going to happen afterwards. It is a house divided against itself this Wisconsin republican party. Conservatives, progressives and ultra-progressives, they might be classed. There is a split in the G. O. P. national convention delegation. While the progressives are in control by a narrow margin there are enough conservative members to make it mighty uncertain ground they are treading on. It is not like days of old when the name La Follette simply meant the Wisconsin delegation solid. The first break came four years ago and while it resulted in a conservative victory at the gubernatorial election two years later added the defeat of the republican candidate for the United States senate at the November election, still it has had its moral effect upon the voters of the state in opening their eyes to the conditions that existed previously to which they had been blind. The old-fashioned, oftentimes repudiated convention system of placing a ticket in nomination is again to be resorted to by the very men who repudiated it in control by a narrow margin. The Wisconsin idea is shattered and the progressive wing, divided itself, wonders what awaits them as a result of the deliberations of the national republican party in Chicago assembled. The result can not be foretold but it is certain that something is going to drop and drop hard pretty shortly after the convention adjourns and the question is, whose loss are going to be hurt?

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

With the closing of the schools the playgrounds will take their place. The old days when the schools were the one place for the average boy or girl to avoid the moment school days were over are past. In their place come the centering of the activity of the boys and girls at the school grounds. The establishment of the playground apparatus in the various school grounds of the city has done much to encourage this thought, and instead of being a spot to be avoided the average school grounds during the summer months become the playgrounds of the younger generation.

The idea of teaching Young America how to play was scoffed at by many of the older generation when first suggested, but its success has driven these pessimists into seclusion and it is only when some accident occurs that they voice their opinion. The playgrounds are a useful adjunct of the community. They take the place of the school discipline, yet they hold the youngsters in restraint and teach them to be thoughtful of others.

Janesville's playgrounds are well worth the money expended upon their upkeep. It would be well if there were more of them and the city could afford more apparatus for the enjoyment of those who visit them. From a private ideal it has become a public affair and the parents of young children are most grateful for the respite given them and the freedom from anxiety when they are in operation. The athletic contests, the games played, the recreation enjoyed all tend to make better men and women of the next generation and it is to be hoped that the season just opening will be as ably handled as in the past so that the same excellent results will be obtained.

The Methodist conference voted to retain the rule providing that members who dance, play cards, or go to the theater, can be expelled. The strict people are now happy because they kept the rule, and the liberal people are happy because no one will be expelled for breaking it.

The Federation of Women's Clubs won't please the men much until it gives some time to consideration of the question of better doughnuts and apple pie.

The political reporters are utterly failing to entrap Justice Hughes into a discussion of the weather, but perhaps he might feel it safe to talk about baseball.

Laws against misleading advertisements are being passed in many states, but the local retail dealer is not the one who has to worry about it.

If a national convention delegate doesn't know how to vote, all he has to do is to wait and see which crowd of rosters yells the loudest.

After working in vain all their lives for fame, many men find it comes easy when they get a son on the college ball team.

SLIDE, O'KEEPS, SLIDE!

"Three strikes" the umpire cried, Then he received a sudden shock; And to the day he died He never knew who threw the rock.

There was excitement in the court room, for the prisoner was none other than Rick O'Keeps, the famous base runner whose record of a thirty foot slide to home plate stood unchallenged.

"O'Keeps," said the judge, "you were caught in the act of murdering an old lady of Finnish descent, robbing a poor box, stealing a hundred pounds of lead pipe and dropping an egg into an electric fan in a millinery store. The jury has found you guilty in the 11th degree. But before I sentence you, I, as a baseball fan, want to tell you that I do not believe you ever slid thirty feet."

"Your honor, I did!" replied O'Keeps indignantly. "These officers are holding me, or I'd prove it."

"Release him!" cried the judge excitedly.

The policemen let go of him, and with a mighty shout the went, robbing a poor box, stealing a hundred pounds of lead pipe and dropping an egg into an electric fan in a millinery store. The jury has found you guilty in the 11th degree. But before I sentence you, I, as a baseball fan, want to tell you that I do not believe you ever slid thirty feet."

CHEF WHO FED KAISER NOW FEEDS THE ALLIES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, June 5.—Through the fortunes of war, one of the chefs most appreciated by Emperor Wilhelm and the Crown Prince in recent years, fed the allies recently in Paris. He was loaned to President Poincare by Jules Cambon who bought him back to Paris from Berlin, where he had frequently had the honor of cooking for the Emperor.

The President decided at the outset that there should be no men, apt for military duty sheltered at the Elysee during the war. Every man of mobilizable age went to the front, including the chef and a considerable number of other valuable servants. The president's table, which had gained largely in reputation since the advent of Monsieur Poincare, suffered in consequence. The difficult was not serious during the first stages of the war, since no official dinners or banquets were given. The visits of the distinguished representatives of the allied powers, however, caused a great deal of anxiety until Monsieur Cambon proposed this chef. The man who had cooked the Kaiser's palates was considered sufficiently qualified and allowed to prepare the historical banquet of the Allies.

AUSTRIA'S TWO GREATEST IRON MILLS MAKE BIG PROFIT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Vienna, June 5.—Austria's two greatest iron and steel corporations have just published their balance sheets for last year, and both show huge profits. The Alpine Montanengesellschaft shows a clear profit of nearly four million dollars as compared with less than $1,800,000 in 1914. The dividend paid was 21 per cent. In 1914 it was only 11 per cent. The board of administration fees and salaries and other allowances amounted to considerably more than $300,000 dollars.

The second corporation, the Oesterreichischen Berg- und Huttenwerke-gesellschaft also did very well last year, making a clear profit of $1,700,000 which was $600,000 more than in the preceding year. The dividend declared was 15 per cent against 12 1/2 per cent in 1914. These are the highest profits made since the corporation was organized. The principal stockholder is the Archduke Frederick at present commander-in-chief of the Austro-Hungarian forces in the field and reputed to be the wealthiest member of the Hapsburg imperial family, next to the Emperor.

The total number of employees is 14,500, and the aggregate wages for the year amounted to less than 16,000,000 crowns, ($2,200,000) which works out at an average of $220 a year, for each person, not much more than four dollars a week. The total payroll is, as the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung points out less than double the amount of the profits. In the reports of both corporations it is interesting to note that their production increased but little, their great profits were due to the rise in the price of iron. It appears that the price of bar-iron rose 21 per cent, steel 15 per cent, and miscellaneous iron goods 18 per cent, above those in 1914. Coal was 15 per cent dearer.

CHINESE ARMY IS MASTER OF CHINA SAYS NEWSPAPER.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Hankow, June 5.—Not Yuan Shi-kai, but the Chinese army, is master of China, according to the daily Central China Post of this city, which has a leading article denouncing the military machine in China, and predicts that there will be no permanent peace until the army is made smaller, and placed under the control of civil authority. The Post says: "The present master of China is neither monarchist nor republican, neither Yuan Shi-kai nor Liang Shao-chi, but the army. The great difficulty of the situation in China lies in the fact that this is a machine which constantly gets out of the driver's control. The only persons in connection with the provinces which have set up for independence of Peking, who had any voice in the matter have been the generals in command of troops. That the people of the revolting provinces sympathized with their military leaders there can be no manner of doubt, but if the question had been put to the vote as to whether they would rather bear the ills they had than fly to others that they know not of, the cautious scholars, farmers and merchants would have been unanimous for peace at any price. Further more, the rest of China, if it had any say, would rather see the present dispute accommodated on any terms than have civil war raging in the land, but in this case also a military man will decide and popular wishes will count for nothing."

EVANSTON UNIVERSITY STUDENTS GIVEN TASTE OF FACULTY DISCIPLINE

Evanston, Ill., June 5.—Dean Thomas Holgate of Northwestern University yesterday revealed the punishment that was to be meted out to the members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity who went on the mo-tor-truck ride to Diamond Lake a week ago in violation of the university rules. The senior students will be allowed to graduate, but the undergraduates must leave school tomorrow and take their examinations next fall. The seniors must go home right after examinations, and will not be allowed to take part in the class exercises. The students who live in Evanston will be barred from the campus and will not be permitted to take part in any university functions until next season. The entire chapter of the fraternity is placed on "social probation for one year."

GREEN BAY WELCOMES ELKS FOR CONVENTION THROWING KEYS AWAY.

Green Bay, Wis., June 5.—Between 5,000 and 6,000 persons gathered here today for the opening of the fifteenth annual state convention of Elks. Each night during the three day convention there will be dancing in the streets near the Elks club house. The opening ceremonies will be held tonight on the lawn of the Elks home. A community street dance will follow.

Several games of baseball are scheduled to be played between the clubs of the various cities. The convention will close with a parade in which 2,000 uniformed Elks, besides many more not in uniform, will march. Eight bands, among the best in the state, will furnish music during the convention. The Sheboygan band of sixty musicians leads the list. Other bands are coming from Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Racine, Oshkosh, Manitowoc, Appleton and Kaukauna.

EIGHTY THOUSAND POUNDS OF ROUGH FISH IS SEINED.

Oshkosh, June 5.—Three carloads of sheephead, 80,000 pounds, have been taken from Lake Winnebago here in the last two weeks. One haul consisted of 30,000 pounds of sheephead and only 127 game fish were in the net. These being sent back into the water unharmed. Sheephead are classed in state law as "rough fish," but they command a good market at Chicago, St. Louis and New York and other cities, retailing at eleven or twelve cents a pound.

PREPAREDNESS

Preparedness is a national question. Are we prepared to defend our rights? Are we prepared to grasp commercial supremacy? Are we prepared to take advantage of the opportunities that are before us as a nation? These are the questions that confront us now.

Preparedness Is Also Your Problem

What are you prepared to do? Are you prepared to take advantage of the opportunities that business offers trained young people?

What Can You Do?

That is the question business will ask you—"What can you do?" Can you keep a set a books? Can you take and transcribe a letter quickly and accurately? Can you spell correctly? Are you a master of business English? These questions and a hundred others you must answer right if you are to serve business.

What Are You Going To Do?

Are you going to take the risk of unpreparedness? Are you going to spend years of apprenticeship in small jobs simply because you lack the training that fits you for the big jobs? Think it over. Then call or write us—let us tell you how we can prepare you—how we can fortify you against the uncertainties of unpreparedness—how we

BELOIT'S PAGEANT WINS HIGH PRAISE

Great Civic Production of Friday and Saturday in Described as Most Wonderful.

Several hundred Janesville residents who enjoyed the beauties of the Beloit pageant, presented last Friday and Saturday at Frog Pond, just outside the city limits, have had no unkind words to say about the production which depicted, dramatically, with all the realism of correct costume and clever impersonation, the history of Beloit from the days of the mound-builders to the present, with its hum of industry and its mingling of many races from distant parts of the earth.

More than two thousand persons took part in the spectacle which was directed most ably by Miss Ethel Theodora Rockwell of Madison. The author was Prof. W. L. Lyman Wright, with several assistants, including Prof. H. M. Hedges of the college faculty.

RED SOX DEFEATED BY BELOIT CLUB, 3-2

Janesville Team Lose Second Game to Beloit A. C. at Collic Hill Diamond Sunday Afternoon.

After winning six straight, dropping one game, the Janesville Red Sox lost another game Sunday afternoon when the A. C. club of Beloit pasted a defeat on them by the score of 3 to 2.

Too much confidence and a brace of errors defeated the Sox, for they were a better ball team than the Beloit club all the way through the game.

Beloit scored two in the fourth on errors and one in the fifth. The Red Sox got their runs in the eighth, when Miller tripled with Dopp on second, and a second later scored himself.

Viney pitched great ball for the Sox, as he fanned ten men and allowed five scattered hits. Lynch pitched for Beloit, fanning five men and allowed four hits. The Sox will play the Beloit club the coming Sunday at Yost's Park. The lineups were as follows:

Beloit: Finnegan, c; Lynch, p; Swanson, 1b; Sura, ss; Terman, rf; Dopeke, 3b; Reynolds, rf; Forsell, 2b; Hodge, cf.

J. R. S.: Spohn, c; Viney, p; Jackson, ss; Miller, 1b; Hill, 2b; Dopp, 3b; Roberts, Kuluske, Hoveland and Fullerton, fielders.

FIVE FRESHMEN ARE CHARGED WITH RIOT

Varsity First Year Men Who Went on Rampage, Brought into Court on Serious Charge.

Madison, June 5.—The situation growing out of the student demonstration Saturday night, took on serious aspects in the municipal court today, when five university freshmen boys arrived on the charge of riot.

The altering of the complaint from disorderly conduct with which the youths were charged Saturday night, to a statutory complaint charging riot, was a surprise. The riot act calls for a fine of $500 or less, or one year's imprisonment at Waupun, or both.

Charles H. Crownhart, former chairman of the industrial commission, appeared for the five defendants. Mr. Crownhart waived reading of the complaint and entered pleas of not guilty.

The district attorney asked for $300 bail in each case to be required to insure appearance of the students in court June 17, at ten o'clock.

"These boys have put up $50 cash bail," said Attorney Crownhart, "and I think the district attorney would be satisfied not to raise this. These boys are first year men. I do not know how many friends they have here. They are not culprits in any sense."

"They are worse," interjected Judge Fehland.

"That depends on whether you view them from a point of rage and experience," answered Attorney Crownhart.

History of Quinine.

The first extraction of quinine from the bark of the tropical cinchona tree by two French chemists in 1820 marked an epoch in the medical world, and it was Sir Clements Markham of England, burned to death in his eighty-sixth year, who in 1852, after a visit to Peru, persuaded the British government to plant and raise the drug in India at a time when malaria was seriously harassing the population there.

Spots on Furniture.

Essence of peppermint, applied with a soft cloth, will successfully remove the white spots that so frequently mar highly polished surfaces on furniture.

Furniture polish ordinarily will not do the work, especially when used on the surface of a piano or any other hand-rubbed mahogany surface. A few drops on a cheesecloth rag, rubbed vigorously, will wipe out the spots.

Another Court Action Results From Trouble Over Bull That Wandered From Lane's Farm.

Wilson Lane was arrested and brought before the municipal court this morning on the charge of aiming and pointing a revolver at Patrick Riley, on May 13th. It is alleged by Riley that the offense was not done in self-defense or in the discharge of law. Lane entered a plea of not guilty and the case was set for June 7th. The defendant was released without bail.

Two actions have already been brought as a result of the trouble that happened between Riley and Lane, in the town of Janesville. Lane has been fined for carrying concealed weapons and a suit was started before Justice Charles Lane, which was settled through the payment of damages alleged to have been caused on Riley's farm by a bull which escaped from Lane's premises.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

OF DAISY DEAN

Bobby Connolly, who enjoys the distinction of being the highest priced star for his age in the films, says it is lots of fun to act in pictures, but sometimes you get tired and wish you could go to school and play in the afternoon like other children. Yes, Bobby goes to school, or rather school comes to Bobby, for he has a teacher who comes to the house and teaches him the three R's and other things. Bobby doesn't think it as much fun as going to school because at school you can have fun while the others are reciting. When there's only one pupil you can't fool because teachers can watch you all the time, says Bobby. When Bobby isn't acting or studying he goes out in the "vacant lot" just like other healthy children and plays ball, marbles and rugby. His and his sister Helen have lots of fun at the studio in between scenes playing with Gasoline, the studio cat, the white mice and the dog. Yes, and even grizzly bears.

"CIVILIZATION" IS SUPER PLAY
"Civilization," Thomas H. Ince's big spectacular film play, has just been released in New York. The producers describe it as an argument against war. "However," they hasten to add, "it is not against preparedness, but is in the nature of an appeal to the mothers of nations."
The spectacle includes pictures of battleships in action. A United States warship fired real projectiles at a target built for the purpose, and the powder burned in the several battle scenes cost the producers $16,000.

EDNA MAYO IN "THE RETURN OF EVE"
"The Return of Eve," in five acts, is the vehicle in which Miss Mayo will next appear in feature productions. It is the story of the Garden of Eden brought down to date. A boy and girl brought up on a desert island find civilized life. It disgusts them, but when they go back to their island they find they have eaten of the fruit of the tree of knowledge and their Eden is no longer Eden. They are barred by a snake from the garden of Eden and the flaming sword.

Mary Garden, celebrated singer, has Bobby Connolly.

Bobby is only seven years old, but he is a better actor now than many others who are acting on the screen ever will be. In his most recent picture, "The Law Decides," he walks off with the honors.

been pursued by movie producers since her recent arrival in New York. But she has not yet signed a contract. Geraldine Farrar's success in pictures has encouraged producers to hope for a like success in Mary Garden.

Viola Dana, star, can stand on her hands and is now assured. Also she can box and nearly every day stands on the gloves with her sister Leonie.

SHE'LL PLAY ROLE OF "AMERICAN BEAUTY"

Myrtle Stedman.

Myrtle Stedman has been chosen from among a large and highly attractive group of movie actresses to portray the role of the "American Beauty" in a screen drama of the same name. With youth, talent, beauty and excellent health all in her favor, the selection has occasioned little surprise. Always an out-of-doors girl, the fair Myrtle spends the greater part of her leisure hours either in the surf or on the beach. On the screen she has appeared with great success in such productions as "The Wild Olive," "Peer Gynt," "In the Valley of the Moon," and "Passion."

Alice Brady in "Then I'll Come Back to You."
The initial presentation of the World Film Corporation's production, "Then I'll Come Back to You," in which Alice Brady makes her appearance, supported by a typical European cast, will take place at the Apollo theatre on Tuesday. "Then I'll Come Back to You" is the filmization of the Larry Evans' story, which appeared serially in the "Metropolitan Magazine," and then in book form, in which form editions in the hundreds of thousands have already been sold.

AT THE APOLLO.

Pauline Frederick Tonight in "Audrey."
The screen's supreme emotional artist, Pauline Frederick, will be seen at the Apollo tonight in Mary Johnston's celebrated novel and play, "Audrey."

"Audrey" is the innocent cause of a sophisticated duel when, despite her unassuming, modesty, she is cast upon her character by the brother of the girl with whom Lord Howard, her guardian has been in love. Howard represents the impatience concerning Audrey's conduct and the duel in which he is severely wounded results.

The false impressions concerning Audrey's character have spread rapidly throughout the town and the situation reaches a climax when she is denounced from the pulpit on Sunday. As a result of this, she is turned out of the home in which she has been a drudge ever since she was old enough to work and seeks refuge with an old woman who is reputed to be a witch. The townsfolk, enraged at the thought that she is under the influence of the "witch," attempt to kill her. Only by the narrowest margin and only by the news of her peril that awakens in Lord Howard a realization of what this wild, careless girl means to him. Despite his wounds he rushes to her rescue. There is another lover to be reckoned with—a half-breed Indian, whose methods of wooing are picturesque in their crudity.

One of the charms of this production is the careful attention paid by Director Willard North to the smallest human details. He has been careful to provide atmosphere, and further more, the psychology of the play rings true. The story takes rather an unusual turn when Elizabeth, an impetuous, affectionate sort of girl, agrees to marry Hallock, a profligate artist, with the proviso that he keep the marriage a secret and allow her to go to her home. He goes away to the city, and in the meantime she falls in love with Julian Gerard, a wealthy New York man, whom she accidentally meets in the woods near her home, and afterward is formally introduced to the home of a friend whom she is visiting in New York.

The big situation of the play arrives when the artist after harrassing his wife into paying her jewelry for him, with a threat of disclosing their relations should she refuse, is found dead in his studio. Elizabeth is arrested for murder and is about to be convicted when Gerard who has gone abroad without leaving his address returns to verify by statement that she was with him in the Metropolitan Museum of Art at the hour of Hallock's death.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
In care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen and got acquainted with a boy of twenty-one on my way home from church. He made a date with me and I kept it. He was a pretty good time. The next day my mother found out that I was at the show with him and she scolded me and said that if she saw me on the street with a fellow or heard I had been with a fellow she would never let me go any place. My girl friend got angry at me because I didn't go to church with her. She told me that she would bring me home from church isn't very good looking but he is good-hearted. I have found out about him from his neighbors and some girls and none of them could say anything bad about him. They all advised me to stick to him. He asked me for steady company and promised that he wouldn't go with anyone else. I have many fellows who are good-looking, but I don't care for so much for them as I do this fellow. What shall I do?

WORRIED ELONDOY
A little girl of seventeen should not go with a boy when her mother objects. When you are a year or two older your mother will not object. If the boy really cares for you he will be willing to wait. Do not keep steady company unless you are engaged. Girls who do are often sorry, because the boys who have been going with them steadily drop them, and they find themselves lonely and without other boy friends. Besides a girl should have several boy friends because she is not so apt to fall in love when she is too young to do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: About a week ago I was on the street in the evening where I met one of my boy friends whom I was with once. He stopped me and asked me to get two other girl friends and go for a walk. I told him I would try. About fifteen minutes later I got two girls and we went to the place where we were to meet him. We met the boys face to face. I said, "We aren't mistaken are we?" The boy that made the date said, "Er—I think you are," and he and his two other friends walked on. I do not care much for this fellow. I only wish to keep his friendship. I am quite sure he knew me. If I meet him should I recognize him? They went with other girls.

You did a very unwise thing when you said that you would bring the girls to meet the boys. Respectable girls that I don't know where I lived before. She is pretty, dresses with style and is a working girl. This I admire, together with her reserved manner. I know she likes me a little, too. It is my place to give her attention first, or should I let her do so? I got so perfectly disgusted with one girl pestering me night and morning that I don't know what to do. Should I let this girl know I am interested? She is a decided blond, tall and slender, dances and sings well, which is just my style.

SOMEBODY'S BOY
Ask to call. From your description I should judge that she is just the sort of girl you have been looking for. Show your admiration by asking to call on her by inviting her to go places with you, and by occasionally bringing her candy or flowers.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What kind of flowers do you think would be best for me to carry at commencement? GIRL GRADUATE
Pink peony buds and pink roses combined.

THE WHOLE DUTY OF MAN
Once upon a time there was a man who was very fond of dogs. He did not like them, but he said he was willing his wife should have them. He bought a dog for her. The dog was a kind dog, which his wife was as much pleased as she was to have the dog. The dog and there hangs not only this dog, but many others—having made it a habit, the man thought he had done his whole duty. He did not think he needed to be pleasant about it.

Experiments with Baking Powder are Costly
Millions of housewives know this is the truth—they realize the cost of a single cake-day failure. That's why they stick to Calumet.

Be on the safe side—avoid disappointments—use Calumet next baking day. The sure of uniform results—learn why Calumet is the most economical to buy and to use. It's pure in the can—pure in the baking. Order now!

WHEN THE DOG ATE UP THE EIGHTEEN'S OVERSHOES
When the dog made any trouble, a neighbor's overshoe or barked to come in, the man considered that an opportunity for him to scold about a nuisance it was to have a dog. To be sure he didn't have to bear the brunt of the trouble. He loved the dog and was willing to let it be. It was the dog that ate up the overshoes and the man thought he had done his whole duty. He did not think he needed to be pleasant about it.

THEY DECIDED TO MEET HALF WAY
They didn't get rid of the dog. Instead they agreed to meet half way. He to make an effort not to be carelessly irritable and she to be patient with him when he really was put out. How many people there are who make sacrifices and then nullify them because they can't be pleasant about them.

Household Hints
Now That Veils are being worn so much and we all know how easily they become wrinkled from frequent use, try the following to make them like new: Fill a bowl in one-half cup of water in which a tablespoon of borax has been dissolved; wring dry as possible, then respread on ironing board and lay veil on it, stretching as smoothly as possible. Press with medium hot iron, and behold the new veil.

Save All Ends of Toilet Soap
Add a tablespoon of toilet soap to a tub of water, then let it cool. This forms a soft soap, which is cool and is very good to shampoo the hair, also very good to keep school children's heads clean. Dumpings will retain their lightness if sprinkled open when first taken from the kettle. Also keep the lid on tightly while they are cooking, as this makes them light.

Press until nearly dry, but do not use too warm an iron. Silk gloves, ribbons and pieces of drawn-work may be washed in this way and will look like new.

Home-Made Library Paste—Most small children like to make book chains and to paste pictures into their scrap books on rainy days. Here is a way to make a paste that will not sour. Into a cup of water dissolve a small lump of alum and a small lump of gum arabic. Bring this to a boil. In another bowl mix a stiff batter of flour and water and one teaspoon plaster of paris. Add to this the boiling water solution, stirring all the while rapidly. If this paste becomes too thick with age, a little water will remedy it.

Swiss Steak—One and one-half pounds round steak one inch thick. Sprinkle well with flour, pounding it in good. Cut in pieces and fry in butter. Add onion, salt and pepper to taste. Add two cups of boiling water and cook slowly one hour, adding more water as it boils down. Serve with the following: Mash potatoes, beat two eggs, top of milk heated, beat two whites with wooden spoon, add onion, table-spoon chopped parsley or onion, beat again, heap in hot dish with little pieces of butter over top.

Apple Sponge—Half cup sugar, half cup milk, two eggs, one and one-half cups flour, two tablespoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, five sliced apples. Beat eggs, add sugar, flour in sifter, add milk and apples, pour into buttered baking dish, bake in moderate oven one hour. Serve with sugar and cream.

Oatmeal Cookies—One cup granulated sugar, two cups flour, two and one-half cups rolled oats, one cup baking powder, half teaspoon salt, five sliced apples. Beat eggs, add sugar, flour in sifter, add milk and apples, pour into buttered baking dish, bake in moderate oven one hour. Serve with sugar and cream.

Fried Toast—Beat whites of two eggs with half teaspoon of salt till they are stiff, then add yolks. Beat well, add teaspoon of sugar, half cup sweet milk or cream, add one cup of cracker crumbs rolled fine. Dip slices of bread in batter, fry in hot oil, and fry in butter till quite brown.

UNBLEACHED MUSLIN
Unbleached muslin has such a range of possibilities that it is likely there will be a noticeable increase in the use of it for sport clothes and house clothes. Very attractive are unbleached muslin aprons, made simple kimono style and trimmed with bands of plain or checkered gingham. The "hausfrau" will find five or six aprons, the same number of neckties and a half dozen pairs of undershirts and a half dozen pairs of undershirts and stockings to be worn with canvas slippers are practical, common sense. Unbleached cloth is easily washed a few hours' soaking will do the work.

TIMELY TIPS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE
WHAT CHILDREN SHOULD EAT.
"Ah! What would the world be to us if children were not here? We would dread the desert behind us. Worse than the dark before."

It is often difficult to know just what kind of food to give second year children and how best to prepare it. If during the first year the child has learned to like fruit juices such as orange and unsweetened prune juice the state of scraped fruits will easily follow.

Know Your Own Stomach. "Spring tonics" are for those who do not know that Nature must rebuild wasted tissue from the food they eat. Help Nature to throw off the toxins of a heavy Winter diet by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, a real whole wheat food that is prepared in a digestible form. Follow Nature's plan—get your strength from a simple, natural food that is thoroughly cooked and easily digested. Try it for breakfast with milk or cream; eat it for luncheon with berries or other fresh fruits; make it your "meat" for the Summer days. Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

OUR COMPLIMENTS TO THE FAT LADY
This is for ladies only. Fat ladies. A fat woman is fat all over, but a fat lady is just a little too stout about the hips and under the corset. She can squeeze it in for a little while by some sort of advanced physics, then presently it seems to spread all over, and she becomes a fat woman. It looks so sad to see a fat woman waddle about trying to appear cheerful and step lightly. One cannot help thinking that she was once only a fat lady—who had such a hatred for long walks that now, through no fault but her own, she has grown to dowager proportions and her temper, despite all literary license, has been a husband—has become docile as a Missouri mule.

The fat woman can fast if she wants to regain her pristine proportions. Yes, and be happy while doing it. The fat lady can do better than that; she can not only diminish the intake of fuel, but she can increase the consumption of fuel. This latter remedy is very simple. It is exercise. The setting up of drill, as employed in the military training school, is the finest thing in the world for a fat lady. In five to twenty minutes of it each leg and arm will be working hard to actual fashion-plate proportions or, near to the pattern as any human being ever approached.

HERE IS A SCHEDULE FOR THE SETTINGUP

1. Stand erect, chin in, chest up, shoulders down and back, stomach drawn up, heel together, hands on hips. Take deep inspiration.
2. Crouch (squat) half way to heels, and right up again. Repeat for six times first session, increase one time at each subsequent session.
3. Erect. Hands at sides, palms forward, shoulders back, chin pulled in. Count "one—two—three—four" at the time you walk, and at "one" lift arms straight forward to horizontal, at "two" carry them straight outward spread eagle; at "three" carry them straight upward, and at "four" sweep the hands down in a long circle.

Marrying a Butterfly

Mrs. Mertage and Ethel Are Daily Impressed by the Forsythe Home. Now don't miss the afternoon train and Ethel Gordon as she climbed on board the Kansas City train behind her mother. She smiled and waved her hand to her husband when she was seated. Ralph waved in return, rather indifferently, to her mother. He must be confessed.

"I really believe he is getting old," thought Ethel to herself. "He certainly has a worried look. I never noticed it before. He is all my extravagance." She shrugged her shoulders and dismissed the subject.

"Why don't you answer?" he asked. "I'm not mother was saying in insistent tones." "Pardon me, I was thinking of Ralph," Ethel laughed. "I don't want to be sentimental. It is not becoming to you. There was a tone of finality in Mrs. Mertage's reply."

"I was saying that we had better get our shopping done this morning, for after lunch there will not be any time. Besides, we must pick up the things and then get the Forsyths to endorse us," continued the mother.

"Oh, I half believe we had better not do anything about it," said Ethel doubtfully. "I hate to ask the Forsyths to recommend us, and I dread to have any more scenes with Ralph over money matters. I can get along with this suit. It does not look so bad. Ralph spoke about how well I looked."

URGENT A NIGHT COURT FOR WAGE EARNERS IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
New York, June 5.—A night court where wage-earners can secure the prompt settlement of suits involving small sums will be opened in this city tonight. It will be held hereafter four times each week, on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 8 to 11 P. M. Branches will be established in the various boroughs as needed.

This aid for persons who can least afford to suffer from the law's delays was finally secured without the passage of a bill from Albany which would make it mandatory.

Mayor Mitchell recognized that the authority to set up such a court was already vested in the Board of Justices.

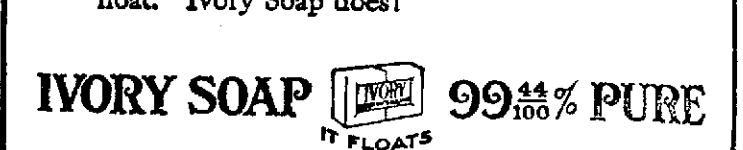

Directly the judges took definite action to provide the court for all the boroughs. The Mayor vetoed the Albany bill. There are enough justices to divide the work in such manner as shall prevent the extra duties from weighing too heavily on them.

The new Night Court may greatly increase respect for the law by emphasizing its readiness to serve the poor man for whom its lengthier processes are prohibitive.

A TOILET soap should be white and sweet-smelling. Ivory Soap is creamy white and it has the pleasing, natural fragrance of the high-grade materials of which it is made.
A toilet soap should lather freely and rinse easily. Ivory Soap makes a copious lather in any water and it contains no unsaponified oil to make rinsing difficult.
A toilet soap should be mild and pure. Ivory Soap is so mild, so free from alkali and so pure that it cannot injure even the tender skin of a baby.
And last, but not least, a toilet soap should float. Ivory Soap does!

SUFFRAGE QUESTION IS FACTOR IN IOWA VOTING.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Des Moines, Ia., June 5.—"Votes for women" is dividing attention at the polls in Iowa today with the hot fight among republicans for the gubernatorial nomination, and in many localities suffrage has the call on popular interest.

Although it is a primary election, the last legislature, for the second time passing the suffrage amendment, for a vote on suffrage today, and if the women win, they will have a chance to cast their ballots for a presidential nominee next November, as well as for state and county offices.

Today's battle is the climax of a long fight for equal rights. In 1822 the suffrage amendment passed the legislature but failed in the next session.

Speaking campaigns, automobile tours and all the demonstrations known to the professional politician have been used. Some of the men Optimistic Thought. He who is ashamed of asking is ashamed of learning.

Among the men assisting in the campaign—and the suffrage leaders have a men's bureau—are Henry J. Wood of Kansas, Owen R. Lovejoy of Iowa, J. W. H. Morgan, lieutenant governor of Kansas, Earl Akers, state treasurer of Kansas, Samuel Strauss of New York, J. Stitt Wilson of California, A. L. Weatherly of Nebraska and Omar Gawwood of Colorado.

Suffrage leaders are confident today that the wires will flash a victory for them tonight. Western suffrage states particularly have backed the Iowa campaign with cast and speaker.

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

CHAPTER 67.

During every hour of life the individual is exposed to the attacks of countless germs of disease. Yet, in health, these germs are as harmless as birds or butterflies for the reason that the well-nourished body possesses an adequate defense against them—Antibodies and alarm due to the popular misconception of the so-called malice of disease germs would disappear if people understood that it is not the germ which is so much to be feared as their own deliberate disregard of the meaning of natural immunity. Disease germs are bad only because they are permitted to live in surroundings where they do not belong—Horses are useful creatures but if we invite them into the parlor we can blame only ourselves for the rumble that will be sure to follow—Yet who will say horses are bad?

Charles Clyde Sutter referring to the natural defense of the body against disease says:

"We are continually in the presence of disease germs; almost daily we are exposed to contagious or infectious diseases, yet the body in health is able to protect itself and ward off the casual agents of disease. Any disturbance of perfect equilibrium in the functions of the body may be described as disease."

The severity of the disease is determined by the intensity of the cause and by the state of the organism and its power of defense. The first general biological law or general principle of living matter is that of self-preservation. The first biological acts of living protoplasm are therefore nutritional. For perfect health there must be complete appropriation, assimilation, and elimination. It is impossible to prevent the entrance of bacteria into the digestive tract with our food. Against this invasion the normal human individual is protected by the acidity of the secretions of the stomach. The body is protected against the poisonous substances formed in the intestinal tract by the secretions of the intestines, the liver, which alone destroys two-thirds of the poison, and by the various glands throughout the body which have the power of destroying toxic substances, and also by the organs which aid in their elimination.

It will thus be seen, in accordance with natural law, that the organism is supplied with powers of nutrition which induce resistance, which enable it to protect itself by the destruction, by the counteraction, and by the elimination of deleterious agents, and thus, by adaptation, provide for the re-establishment of the disturbed equilibrium.

Notwithstanding the certitude of these frequently demonstrated truths, the school teachers of the United States, who are also the victims of confusion in high places, make no attempt to influence the young to a correct understanding of the laws of nutrition.

Most of them are familiar with the erroneous but popular doctrines of Hutchinson and Lusk, but few, if any, of them, know that refined foods of high caloric value, containing all the so-called scientific proportions of proteins, carbohydrates and fats, but robbed of the mineral salts, colloids and vitamins natural to the unfractionated food, cause a disturbance of the functions of assimilation and elimination.

They do not know that the most common of these disturbances of elimination, which seriously interferes with the body's power to resist disease, usually yields to dietetic treatment in which the salts, colloids and vitamins are permitted to remain in an undisturbed state in the food.

They do not know that the creation of immunity as the greatest defense of the organism against infection depends largely upon food of a proper kind.

They do not know that the various defensive acts of the organism against infection depends upon food of a proper kind.

They do not know that the various defensive acts of the organism against infection depends upon food of a proper kind.

They do not know, as summed up by the later, that they have no suspicion of the importance of phosphorus, potassium, manganese, iron, or any of the other mineral salts, colloids, and vitamins so indispensable to the normal physical and mental developments of their pupils.

In consequence of their ignorance of these fundamental truths they are unable, while lecturing, discussing, and dogmatising of the class room, to direct the growing child in matters that have a greater bearing upon its life than all botany, geology, geometry, geography, and astronomy combined.

The missing link in our modern system of education is to be found in the darkness which thus separates teacher from child.

moved lower down the river and built up soon.

Miss Florence White, principal, and Miss L. Christman, teacher, have just finished a very successful year in the school here. The graduates this year were Kenneth Fossenden, Chester Murwin and Arthur Witt. Misses White and Christman have been hired as teachers here for the coming year. They left for their homes after the close of school.

DELANVAN

Delavan, June 3.—D. M. Duggan was in Beloit on Friday of this week. Mrs. George Groesbeck, formerly Miss Sturtevant, is here from Milwaukee and is visiting friends. She is expected in Delavan today.

Henry Allen Cooper has been secured to speak here at the home coming, June 20.

Isaac, the family cat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cray of Seattle, Washington, was shipped from that city last Monday and arrived here Friday afternoon and was delivered to Mrs. Cray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steiner. The cat, which is of the light variety, weighs nearly twenty pounds. The express charges amounted to $2.82. Mr. and Mrs. Cray will arrive on Tuesday for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dalton are giving a golden wedding reception today, to which guests are invited numbering nearly one hundred.

David Wood called on his friend Mr. Cannon, in Janesville, on Friday.

Mrs. J. Reader called on friends in Williams Bay yesterday.

John Souders now drives an auto.

Mrs. Amos Birder left here on the early train today to attend the funeral of her father, Mr. Smith, who passed away at his home in Teagarden, Wis., at the age of eighty-six years.

Mrs. Agnes Moran is visiting her friend, Miss Alice Loughran, in Rochester, Wis.

Mrs. J. T. Dittmar of Wauwatosa and Mrs. Henry Dittmar of West Greenville have returned to their homes, after visiting a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gaylord will return to Emmettsburg, Iowa, tomorrow, going by way of Williams Bay, via South Chicago.

Mrs. Seymour Ripley has been here for two weeks visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Ondell and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ondell are planning on making their home in the west after the summer.

Miss Grace Brownie spent a few days the first of the week with Elk-horn relatives.

A well attended dancing party was given by some of the boys in the K. C. hall Friday evening.

D. J. Conkel is visiting a daughter in Dodgeville, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gullickson departed Friday for New Jersey to visit her sister, who was formerly Miss Lulu McDougal.

Charles Dobbert and wife of Milwaukee are here, the guests of relatives.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Miss Harriet Hull Friday evening for Mrs. Al. Harvey by exchange.

The Women's Circle will meet next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. Penn. Work was continued in the Bradley mill this afternoon to make up for loss of time on Decoration Day.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, June 3.—Neil Thorson left on Friday morning for North Dakota where he will spend the summer.

Mr. Layton was taken to Mercy Hospital by Dr. Forbush on Thursday morning, where an operation was performed for trouble with his jaw.

Mrs. Frank Ashby and son, Stanley were among the morning passengers to Janesville on Saturday.

Those of the village who wrote for diplomas, at the recent examination, are just receiving their standings.

All passed, and all show that thorough work has been the rule for the past year, by both student and instructor.

Edwin Tollerud left on Saturday morning for Decorah, where he will spend a few days with his brother, Merwin, who is a student at the college there.

The graduation exercises of the graded school will be held at the Auditorium at the school building next Friday evening. In view of the very unpropitious opening of the school year owing to the building not being completed, all concerned are to be congratulated upon the work done.

John Jacobson and Leonard Tollerud, who are working in Beloit, came home on Saturday and will spend the weekend with friends here.

Mrs. Albert Grenavall and family of Beloit are visiting for a day or two with relatives here.

On Tuesday evening the Gridley entertainers will appear under the auspices of the school and will give one of their delightful entertainments at the school house. Pupils have been making a thorough canvas for the sale of tickets, and doubtless a good audience will greet them.

Preparations are being rapidly completed for the community celebration of the Fourth of July. The literary part of the program will be carried out at the Auditorium and the sports and games on the park adjoining.

A picnic dinner will be served at noon and the entire day devoted to patriotic pleasure. The name of the speaker of the occasion will be announced later.

The regular quarterly meeting of the anti-horse thief meeting was held on Saturday afternoon. Only the routine business came before the gathering.

The Odd Fellows are having the dining room and lodge room of their new building decorated by a scenic artist from Chicago. It will present a very handsome appearance when completed.

PATENTS TO INVENTORS.

Richard S. C. Caldwell, Solicitor of Patents, 315 Marquette Building, Milwaukee, reports patents issued to Wisconsin inventors on May 30, 1916, as follows:

Edward J. Dequenter, Milwaukee, stanchion; Anthony G. Dorse, Oconomowoc, rearsight for rifles; George P. Dravo, Milwaukee, steam superheater; Frederick Gettelman, Milwaukee, reverse mechanism for propeller shafts; Laura C. Hann, Sturgeon Bay, sound record; Rudolph P. Jaekel, Milwaukee, window construction; Frank W. Meyer, Oshkosh, trunk securing means; Henry C. Miller, Milwaukee, flexible binder post for loose leaf binders; Leon R. Perkins, Westfield, pipe wrench; Robert E. Rasmussen, Oshkosh, stock waterer; Joseph John, Joseph G., Edmund H. and Frank Rausch, Milwaukee, safe; John Reid, Jr., Racine, mower; William Sobey, Racine, gang plow; Charles Stein, Oshkosh, chimney cleaner; George J. Willett, Milwaukee, automatic speed limit control; and design patent to John Karpen and C. A. Barrow, Racine, bottle stopper.

Uncle Robby of the Dodgers has evolved a new trick play. It is for the catcher to cover third when the third baseman fields a bunt with the runner on first or second. The runner thinks this is to be left uncovered, but a speed merchant like Otto Miller or Jack Meyers shoots down to third, covers the bag and takes the throw, thus surprising the incoming runner. At that, the Dodgers actually pulled it in St. Louis. The base runner victim must have had a sore heel.

Nothing To Be Added To The Maxwell

YOU will never want to add anything to your Maxwell. The purchase price includes everything you will ever need or desire for luxurious motoring.

You won't want to disguise the hood or buy a new body or put in another carburetor or ignition system or install electric lights or a self-starter.

You won't want a new radiator or springs or new spark plugs or shock-absorbers or a new top.

You need add nothing for comfort, reliability, beauty, economy or convenience. If it is a Maxwell, your car, your experience and your investment are complete.

That is the way that Maxwells are designed, manufactured and sold.

Question the owners of other motor cars—any other motor cars—and see if they are equally satisfied with their motoring investment.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS
INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

MYRTLE WARBLER
(Dendroica coronata)

Length, five and one-half inches. The similarly colored Audubon's warbler has a yellow throat instead of a white one.
Range: Breeds throughout most of the forested area of Canada and south to Minnesota, Michigan, New York, and Massachusetts; winters in the southern two-thirds of the United States and south to Panama.
Habits and economic status: This member of our beautiful wood warbler family, a family peculiar to America, has the characteristic voice, coloration, and habits of its kind. Trim of form and graceful of motion, when seeking food it combines the methods of the wrens, creepers, and flycatchers. It breeds only in the northern parts of the eastern United States, but in migration it occurs in every patch of woodland and is so numerous that it is familiar to every observer. Its place is taken in the West by Audubon's warbler. More than three-fourths of the food of the myrtle warbler consists of insects, practically all of them harmful. It is made up of small beetles, including some weevils, with many ants and wasps. This bird is so small and nimble that it successfully attacks insects too minute to be prey for larger birds. Scales and plant life form a very considerable part of its diet. Flies are the largest item of food; in fact, only a few flycatchers and swallows eat as many flies as this bird. The vegetable food (22 per cent) is made up of fruit and the seeds of pine and of the bayberry.
